(2) The balance or value of an account is determined on the last day of the calendar year or other appropriate reporting period.

(3) For the purpose of determining whether the balance or value of an account exceeds a particular threshold on the last day of a calendar year, the balance or value must be determined on the last day of the last reporting period that ends on or before the end of the calendar year.

(4) A reporting financial institution may use service providers to fulfil its reporting and due diligence obligations imposed, but these obligations shall remain the responsibility of the reporting financial institution.

(5) A reporting financial institution may apply the due diligence procedures for new accounts to preexisting accounts (with the other rules for preexisting accounts continuing to apply).

(6) Every reporting financial institution shall establish, maintain and document the due diligence procedures set out in sections 272 through 277.

Due diligence for preexisting individual accounts

273 (1) A preexisting individual account that is a cash value insurance contract or an annuity contract is not required to be reviewed, identified or reported, provided the reporting financial institution is effectively prevented by law from selling those contracts to residents of a reportable jurisdiction.

Lower value accounts

(2) The following review procedures apply with respect to lower value accounts that are preexisting individual accounts:

(a) if the reporting financial institution has in its records the address of the individual account holder's current residence (in this section, their "current residence address") based on documentary evidence, the reporting financial institution may treat the individual account holder as being a resident for tax purposes of the jurisdiction in which the address is located for purposes of determining whether the individual account holder is a reportable person;

(b) if the reporting financial institution does not rely on a current residence address for the individual account holder based on documentary evidence as described in paragraph (a), the reporting financial institution must review electronically searchable data maintained by the reporting financial institution for any of the following indicia and apply paragraphs (c) through (f):

(i) identification of the account holder as a resident of a reportable jurisdiction,

(ii) current mailing or residence address (including post office box) in a reportable jurisdiction,

- (iii) one or more telephone numbers in a reportable jurisdiction and no telephone number in the jurisdiction of the reporting financial institution,

 - (v) currently effective power of attorney or signatory authority granted to a person with an address in a reportable jurisdiction, and
 - (vi) a hold mail instruction or in-care-of address in a reportable jurisdiction if the reporting financial institution does not have any other address on file for the account holder;
- (c) if none of the indicia listed in paragraph (b) are discovered in the electronic search, then no further review is required until the earlier of
- (i) a change in circumstances that results in one or more of the indicia referred to in paragraph (b) being associated with the account, or
 - (ii) the account becoming a high value account;
- (d) if any of the indicia listed in subparagraphs (b)(i) to (v) are discovered in the electronic search or if there is a change in circumstances that results in one or more of the indicia in paragraph (b) being associated with the account, then the reporting financial institution must treat the account holder as a resident for tax purposes of each reportable jurisdiction for which an indicium is identified, unless one of the exceptions in paragraph (f) applies with respect to that account;
- (e) if a hold mail instruction or in-care-of address in a reportable jurisdiction is discovered in the electronic search and no other address and none of the other indicia listed in subparagraphs (b)(i) to (v) are identified for the account holder, then
- (i) the reporting financial institution must do one (if the relevant information is obtained) or both (in the order most appropriate to the circumstances) of the following:
 - (A) apply the paper record search described in paragraph (3)(b), and
 - (B) seek to obtain from the account holder a self-certification or documentary evidence to establish the residence for tax purposes of the account holder, and
 - (ii) if the paper record search referred to in clause (i)(A) fails to establish an indicium and the attempt to obtain the self-certification or documentary evidence referred to in clause (i)(B) is not successful, then the reporting financial institution must report the account as an undocumented account;
- (f) notwithstanding the discovery of indicia under paragraph (b), a reporting financial institution is not required to treat an account holder as a resident of a reportable jurisdiction if
- (i) both
 - (A) the account holder information contains
 - (I) a current mailing or residence address in the reportable jurisdiction,
 - (II) one or more telephone numbers in the reportable jurisdiction (and no telephone number in the jurisdiction of the reporting financial institution), or
 - (III) standing instructions (with respect to financial accounts other than depository accounts) to transfer funds to an account maintained in a reportable jurisdiction, and
 - (B) the reporting financial institution obtains, or has previously reviewed and currently maintains a record of,

(I) a self-certification from the account holder of the jurisdictions of residence of the account holder that does not include the reportable jurisdiction, and

(II) documentary evidence establishing the account holder's non-reportable status in relation to that jurisdiction, or

(ii) both

(A) the account holder information contains a currently effective power of attorney or signatory authority granted to a person with an address in the reportable jurisdiction, and

(B) the reporting financial institution obtains, or has previously reviewed and currently maintains a record of,

(I) a self-certification from the account holder of the jurisdictions of residence of the account holder that does not include the reportable jurisdiction, or

(II) documentary evidence establishing the account holder's non-reportable status in relation to that jurisdiction.

Enhanced review procedure – high value accounts

(3) The following enhanced review procedures apply with respect to high value accounts that are preexisting individual accounts:

(a) the reporting financial institution must review electronically searchable data maintained by the reporting financial institution for any of the indicia described in paragraph (2)(b);

(b) subject to paragraph (c), the reporting financial institution must review for any of the indicia described in paragraph (2)(b)

(i) the current customer master file, and

(ii) the following documents associated with the account, and obtained by the reporting financial institution within the last five years, to the extent that they are not contained in the current customer master file:

(B) the most recent account opening contract or documentation,

(C) the most recent documentation obtained by the reporting financial institution pursuant to AML/KYC procedures or for other regulatory purposes,

(D) any power of attorney or signature authority forms currently in effect, and

(E) any standing instructions (other than with respect to a depository account) to transfer funds currently in effect;

(c) a reporting financial institution is not required to perform the paper record search described in paragraph (b) to the extent that the reporting financial institution's electronically searchable information includes the following:

(i) the account holder's residence status,

(ii) the account holder's residence address and mailing address currently on file with the reporting financial institution,

(iii) the account holder's telephone number currently on file, if any, with the reporting financial institution,

- (iv) in the case of financial accounts other than depository accounts, whether there are standing instructions to transfer funds in the account to another account (including an account at another branch of the reporting financial institution or another financial institution),
- (v) whether there is a current in-care-of address or hold mail instruction for the account holder, and
- (vi) whether there is any power of attorney or signatory authority for the account;
- (d) in addition to the electronic and paper record searches described in paragraphs (a) to (c), the reporting financial institution must treat as a reportable account any high value account assigned to a relationship manager (including any financial accounts aggregated with that high value account under section 277) if the relationship manager has actual knowledge that the account holder is a reportable person;
- (e) with respect to the enhanced review of high value accounts described in paragraphs (a) to (d),
- (i) if none of the indicia listed in paragraph (2)(b) are discovered in the enhanced review and the account is not identified as being held by a reportable person in paragraph (d), then further action is not required until there is a change in circumstances that results in one or more indicia being associated with the account,
- (ii) if any of the indicia listed in subparagraphs (2)(b)(i) through (v) are discovered in the enhanced review, or if there is a subsequent change in circumstances that results in one or more indicia being associated with the account, then the reporting financial institution must treat the account as a reportable account with respect to each reportable jurisdiction for which an indicium is identified unless one of the exceptions in paragraph 2(f) applies with respect to that account,
- (iii) if a hold mail instruction or in care of address is discovered in the enhanced review and no other address or other indicia listed in (2)(b)(i) through (v) are identified for the account holder, then the reporting financial institution must
- (A) obtain from the account holder a self-certification or documentary evidence to establish the residence for tax purposes of the account holder, and
- (B) if the reporting financial institution cannot obtain a self-certification or documentary evidence, report the account as an undocumented account;
- (f) if a preexisting individual account is not a high value account on June 30, 2017, but becomes a high value account as of the last day of a subsequent calendar year,
- (i) the reporting financial institution must complete the enhanced review procedures described in this subsection with respect to the account within the calendar year following the year in which the account becomes a high value account, and
- (ii) if the account is identified as a reportable account based on the review in subparagraph (i), the reporting financial institution must report the required information about the account with respect to the year in which it is identified as a reportable account (and subsequent years on an annual basis, unless the account holder ceases to be a reportable person);
- (g) if a reporting financial institution applies the enhanced review procedures described in this subsection to a high value account in a year, then the reporting financial institution is not required to re-apply those procedures – other than the relationship manager inquiry described in paragraph (d) – to the same high value account in any subsequent year unless the account is undocumented, in which case the reporting financial institution must re-apply them annually until the account ceases to be undocumented;
- (h) if there is a change of circumstances with respect to a high value account that results in one or more indicia described in paragraph (2)(b) being associated with the account, then the reporting financial institution must treat the account as a reportable account with respect to each reportable jurisdiction for which an indicium is identified unless one of the exceptions in paragraph (2)(f) applies with respect to that account;

(i) a reporting financial institution must implement procedures to ensure that a relationship manager identifies any change in circumstances of an account.

Timing of review

(4) Each preexisting individual account must be reviewed in accordance with subsection (2) or (3) before

(a) 2019, if the account is a high value account; or

(b) 2020, if the account is a lower value account.

Reportable preexisting individual accounts

(5) Any preexisting individual account that has been identified as a reportable account under this section must be treated as a reportable account in all subsequent years, unless the account holder ceases to be a reportable person.

Due diligence – new individual accounts

274 (1) Upon opening a new individual account, the reporting financial institution must obtain a self-certification (which may be a part of the account opening documentation) that allows the reporting financial institution to

(a) determine the account holder's residence for tax purposes; and

(b) confirm the reasonableness of the self-certification taking into account information obtained by the reporting financial institution in connection with the opening of the account, including any documentation collected pursuant to the AML/KYC procedures.

(2) If the self-certification for a new individual account establishes that the account holder is resident for tax purposes in a reportable jurisdiction, then

(a) the reporting financial institution must treat the account as a reportable account; and

(b) the self-certification must also include the account holder's TIN with respect to the reportable jurisdiction (subject to subsection 271(4)) and date of birth.

(3) If there is a change in circumstances with respect to a new individual account that causes the reporting financial institution to know, or have reason to know, that the original self-certification is incorrect or unreliable, then the reporting financial institution

(a) cannot rely on the original self-certification; and

(b) must obtain a valid self-certification that establishes the residence for tax purposes of the account holder.

Due diligence – preexisting entity accounts

275 (1) Unless the reporting financial institution elects otherwise – either with respect to all preexisting entity accounts or, separately, with respect to any clearly identified group of those accounts – a preexisting entity account with an aggregate account balance or value that does not exceed 250,000 USD on June 30, 2017 is not required to be reviewed, identified or reported as a reportable account until the aggregate account balance or value exceeds 250,000 USD on the last day of any subsequent calendar year.

(2) The review procedures set forth in subsection (4) apply to a preexisting entity account if it has an aggregate account balance or value that exceeds 250,000 USD on

(a) June 30, 2017; or

(b) the last day of any subsequent calendar year.

(3) With respect to preexisting entity accounts described in subsection (2), the only accounts that shall be treated as reportable accounts are accounts that are held by

- (a) one or more entities that are reportable persons; or
- (b) passive NFEs with one or more controlling persons who are reportable persons.

(4) If this subsection applies to a preexisting entity account, a reporting financial institution must apply the following review procedures to determine whether the account is held by one or more reportable persons or by passive NFEs with one or more controlling persons who are reportable persons:

(a) review information maintained for regulatory or customer relationship purposes (including information collected pursuant to AML/KYC procedures) to determine whether the information indicates that the account holder is resident in a reportable jurisdiction, and if so, the reporting financial institution must treat the account as a reportable account unless it

(i) obtains a self-certification from the account holder to establish that the account holder is not a reportable person, or

(ii) reasonably determines, based on information in its possession or that is publicly available, that the account holder is not a reportable person; and

(b) with respect to an account holder of a preexisting account (including an entity that is a reportable person), the reporting financial institution must determine whether the account holder is a passive NFE with one or more controlling persons who are reportable persons, and for the purposes of

(i) determining whether the account holder is a passive NFE, the reporting financial institution must obtain a self-certification from the account holder to establish its status, unless it has information in its possession or information is publicly available, based on which it can reasonably determine that the account holder is

(A) an active NFE, or

(B) a financial institution other than an entity described in paragraph (b) of the definition investment entity that is not a participating jurisdiction financial institution,

(ii) determining the controlling persons of an account holder, a reporting financial institution may rely on information collected and maintained pursuant to AML/KYC procedures, and

(iii) determining whether a controlling person of a passive NFE is a reportable person, a reporting financial institution may rely on

(A) information collected and maintained pursuant to AML/KYC procedures in the case of a preexisting entity account held by one or more NFEs with an aggregate account balance or value that does not exceed 1 million USD, or

(B) a self-certification from the account holder or the controlling person indicating the jurisdiction in which the controlling person is resident for tax purposes.

Timing of review

(5) Each preexisting entity account must be reviewed in accordance with subsection (4) before

(a) 2020, if the account has an aggregate account balance or value that exceeds 250,000 USD on June 30, 2017; or

(b) the end of the calendar year following the year in which the aggregate account balance or value exceeds 250,000 USD on December 31, if paragraph (a) does not apply.

Change of circumstances

(6) If there is a change of circumstances with respect to a preexisting entity account that causes the reporting financial institution to know, or have reason to know, that the self-certification or other documentation associated with the account is incorrect or unreliable, the reporting financial institution must re-determine the status of the account in accordance with subsection (4).

Due diligence for new entity accounts

276 (1) For new entity accounts, a reporting financial institution must apply the following review procedures to determine whether the account is held by one or more reportable persons or by passive NFEs with one or more controlling persons who are reportable persons:

- (a) the reporting financial institution must
 - (i) obtain a self-certification (which may be part of the account opening documentation) that allows the reporting financial institution to determine the account holder's residence for tax purposes and confirm the reasonableness of the self-certification based on the information obtained by the reporting financial institution in connection with the opening of the account, including any documentation collected pursuant to AML/KYC procedures, and
 - (ii) if the self-certification referred to in subparagraph (i) indicates that the account holder is resident in a reportable jurisdiction, treat the account as a reportable account unless it reasonably determines, based on information in its possession or information that is publicly available, that the account holder is not a reportable person with respect to the reportable jurisdiction; and
- (b) with respect to an account holder of a new entity account (including an entity that is a reportable person), the reporting financial institution must determine whether the account holder is a passive NFE with one or more controlling persons who are reportable persons and if so, treat the account as a reportable account, and for the purposes of
 - (i) determining whether the account holder is a passive NFE, the reporting financial institution must obtain a self-certification from the account holder to establish its status, unless it has information in its possession or information is publicly available, based on which it can reasonably determine that the account holder is
 - (A) an active NFE, or
 - (B) a financial institution other than an entity that
 - (I) is an investment entity because of paragraph (b) of that definition, and
 - (II) is not a participating jurisdiction financial institution,
 - (ii) determining the controlling persons of an account holder, a reporting financial institution may rely on information collected and maintained pursuant to AML/KYC procedures, and
 - (iii) determining whether a controlling person of a passive NFE is a reportable person, a reporting financial institution may rely on a self-certification from the account holder or the controlling person.

Special due diligence rules

277 (1) A reporting financial institution may not rely on a self-certification or documentary evidence if the reporting financial institution knows or has reason to know that the self-certification or documentary evidence is incorrect or unreliable.

(2) A reporting financial institution may presume that an individual beneficiary (other than the owner) of a cash value insurance contract or an annuity contract receiving a death benefit is not a reportable person and may treat the financial account as other than a reportable account unless it has actual knowledge, or reason to know, that the beneficiary is a reportable person.

(3) For the purposes of

- (a) determining the aggregate balance or value of financial accounts held by an individual or entity,

(i) a reporting financial institution is required to aggregate all financial accounts maintained by the reporting financial institution, or by a related entity, but only to the extent that the reporting financial institution's computerized systems

(A) link the financial accounts by reference to a data element such as a client number or TIN, and

(B) allow account balances or values to be aggregated, and

(ii) each holder of a jointly held financial account shall be attributed the entire balance or value of the jointly held financial account; and

(b) determining the aggregate balance or value of financial accounts held by an individual in order to determine whether a financial account is a high value account, a reporting financial institution is also required — in the case of any financial accounts that a relationship manager knows, or has reason to know, are directly or indirectly owned, controlled or established (other than in a fiduciary capacity) by the same individual — to aggregate all such accounts.

Dealer accounts

(4) Subsection (5)

(a) applies to a reporting financial institution in respect of a client name account maintained by the institution if

(i) property recorded in the account is also recorded in a financial account (in this subsection and subsection (5) referred to as the “related account”) maintained by a financial institution (in this subsection and subsection (5) referred to as the “dealer”) that is authorized under provincial legislation to engage in the business of dealing in securities or any other financial instrument, or to provide portfolio management or investment advising services, and

(ii) the dealer has advised the institution whether the related account is a reportable account; and

(b) does not apply, despite paragraph (a), if it can reasonably be concluded by the institution that the dealer has failed to comply with its obligations under this Part.

Dealer accounts

(5) If this subsection applies to a reporting financial institution in respect of a client name account,

(a) sections 272 to 276 do not apply to the institution in respect of the account; and

(b) the institution shall rely on the determination of the dealer in respect of the related account in determining whether the account is a reportable account.

Group insurance and annuities

(6) A reporting financial institution may treat a financial account that is a member's interest in a group cash value insurance contract or group annuity contract as a financial account that is not a reportable account until the day on which an amount becomes payable to the employee, certificate holder or beneficiary, if the financial account meets the following requirements:

(a) the group cash value insurance contract or group annuity contract is issued to an employer and covers 25 or more employees or certificate holders;

(b) the employees or certificate holders are entitled to

(i) receive any contract value related to their interest, and

(ii) to name beneficiaries for the benefit payable upon the employee or certificate holder's death; and

(c) the aggregate amount payable to any employee or certificate holder or beneficiary does not exceed 1 million USD.

Reporting

278 (1) Every reporting financial institution shall file with the Minister, before May 2 of each calendar year, an information return in prescribed form relating to each reportable account maintained by the institution at any time during the immediately preceding calendar year and after June 30, 2017.

(2) The information return required under subsection (1) shall be filed by way of electronic filing.

Record keeping

279 (1) Every reporting financial institution shall keep, at the institution's place of business or at such other place as may be designated by the Minister, records that the institution obtains or creates for the purpose of complying with this Part, including self-certifications and records of documentary evidence.

Form of records

(2) Every reporting financial institution required by this Part to keep records that does so electronically shall retain them in an electronically readable format for the retention period referred to in subsection (3).

Retention of records

(3) Every reporting financial institution that is required to keep, obtain or create records under this Part shall retain those records for a period of at least six years following

- (a) in the case of a self-certification, the last day on which a related financial account is open; and
- (b) in any other case, the end of the last calendar year in respect of which the record is relevant.

Anti-avoidance

280 If a person enters into an arrangement or engages in a practice, the primary purpose of which can reasonably be considered to be to avoid an obligation under this Part, the person is subject to the obligation as if the person had not entered into the arrangement or engaged in the practice.

(2) Subsection (1) comes into force on July 1, 2017.
